

Early Summer 2010

With Memorial Day right around the corner and the weather heating up, refreshing breezes and glorious sunrises make Currituck Crossing a great place to be. The young trees are leafing out nicely, the grass is growing as fast as we can mow it, and the eagles are once again nesting in the large trees on the southern end of the community.

We have a number of snowy egrets nesting on the property as well. It's fun to watch them follow the mowers for the bugs that jump up when the grass is cut. We haven't yet seen the young ones, but they should be out of their nests any day now.

Come by any time and take a look-- just drop by, or give us a call to set up an appointment. The model home is often open, and we have a telescope in the breakfast sunroom that should give you a good view of the nesting areas and across the Sound to the Outer Banks.

We look forward to seeing you!
